DR. HARTMAN

Tells Us What We Should Do

In the Springtime to Resist the Debilitating Effects

Of the Heat and to Wara off the Billiousness.

Headaches and Various other Inflammations,

Disorders and Diseases That So Commonly Afflict Mankind During Early Summer,

Of all the seasons of the year spring is the time when the system is most gener-eally disordered and debilitated, and in most need, therefore, of the aid of some good medicine to at once regulate and strengthen it. The blood of nine persons out of every ten is in a miserable state of impurity at this time, and this is the seat of the whole trouble. When the head aches, when the appetite is poor, when one has that wretched "tired feeling," together with an offensive breath and a frequent tendency to sudden attacks of peculiar dizziness, it simply means that the blood is out of order and needs purifying. It means, also, that a tonic is necessary to fortify the weakened system against the debilitating effects of warm weather following so closely upon the bracing air of winter. For the penefit of those who are suffering in this way, and who are likely to become despondent because they do not understand the nature of their troubles, and do not know what to do to get rid of them, Dr. S. B. Hartman, the celebrated physician and surgeon, whose name is familiar to all, and whose remarkable success in his profession has qualified him to speak with authority on matters pertaining to diseases and disorders of every kind, has taken the trouble to explain the cause of these spring and early summer troubles, and to give his advice as to what to do to prevent them, in the first place, and to get rid of them, in the second place, in case they do appear. For the benfit of the public, therefore, he has furnished the following statement:

During the winter the circulation of the blood is sluggish and is confined principally to the internal organs, while the skin is but feebly supplied with the life-giving fluid. As a consequence of this unequal distribution of the blood, the secretions of the internal organs become overcharged with the impurities of the system that should have been discharged through the pores of the skin. It is during the months of April and May, the very months when Mother Earth is budding and blossoming into vernal beauty, when the balmy air is filled with freshness and with fragrance; at this very time, when the face of Nature is putting on its sweetest and most winsome smile, and when Life itself, drawing new inspiration from the overflowing exuberance of Nature, should be most abounding and most joyous, that Bidousness, Congestion, Rheu-Inflammations and Neuralgias make their unwelcome appearance to rack the body with pain and darken the beart with shadows. No one, however, need worry in anticipation of such attacks, for they can all be avoided by a course of gentle medication with Pe-ru-na and Man-a-lin, remedies that need no introduction to the public, as they are every-where recognized as standard medicines. Pe-ru-na will expel the winter accumula tion of impurities through the pores of the skin, equalize the circulation of the blood, and in this way prevent all such discusses. If already afflicted with them, Po-ru-na will break up the irritation and congestion, allay the pain, and build up the system to its normal active condition. At the same time the Man-a-lin will arouse the action of the liver and kidneys and expel through th bowels the impurities of those organs. There is no need, therefore, of any one worrying for fear that he will be attacked, or of becoming despondent because he is attacked, for in Portu-na and Man-a-lin he has both preventive and cure. They are truly a great power, and will cure nearly all the ills that mankind is subject to. The following case is a splendid illustration of the power of these two remedies in the cure of lung troubles, such as pleuro-pneu-While in the enjoyment of the most perfect health, Mrs. J. W. Luckenbach, wife of the well-known commercial traveler of Toledo, O., was stricken down with pleuro-pneumonia. It was a most vi-olent and dangerous attack. There seemed to be no limit to its virulence. It em-braced both lungs, and developed a cough so painful and so weakening that her sufferings were enough to drive her mad. To the imagination of the unfortunate and frightened woman the disease that had seized her in its clutches took the form of a fiend incarnate. She could feel upon her breast the clutching of his cruel finings of his death-laden breath. As she lay helpless upon her bed of torture, while the cold chill of despair crept over her, she could see the mocking smile upon his face, as, with a significant gesture, he pointed to the dark form of Death beckoning to her in the distance. It might have been the fantastic fiction of deierium, but with her pulse at 120 and her respiration at 36, and with a pain accompanying each breath that made every nerve in her body throb with the most poignant agony, this vision of a disordered imagination was not an extravagant fancy, but a representation of a terrible reality. To a person in her desperate condition death could certainly desperate condition death could certainly not be very far off. But there is one medicine, at least, that is able to cope, and cope successfully, even with death, and that is Pe-ru-na. Now it happened, most fortunately, that Mrs. Lukenbach's husband knew this, for Pe-ru-na had cured him of a case of Catarah that had bidden fair to faster itself upon him for life. More than that, he had read so many testimonials to the great efficacy of Pe-ru-More than that, he had read so many testimonials to the great efficacy of Peruna that he could not but have the utmost confidence in it. He therefore gave it to his wife, a teaspoonful in barley water every two hours, with enough Man-a-lin, half an hour after each meal, to keep the bowels open. The very next day after this treatment had been begun the patient experienced a marked relief. Her pain began to leave her, her fever to substitute the lowest prices. gan to leave her, her fever to subside, and her lungs to feel easier. With this marked improvement returned the hope that had left her long before. And as each day found her better, she grew more hopeful and happier. So rapid was her progress toward recovery that, marvelous as it may appear, within two weeks she was able to set out of the had to which she had been get out of the bed to which she had been brush and clean towel every morning for confined so long and walk two blocks to dinner. And when the use of Pe-ru-na Laundry. Ornament to any office. t out of the bed to which she had been mlined so long and walk two blocks to was discontinued, the last remaining vestige of lung trouble had disappeared and Mrs. Lukenbach was healthier, heartier Randolph road, Chelsea.

and happier than she had ever been be-fore in all her life. It would take a long search through the pages of the history of medicine to find an equal to this remarka-ble cure.

These remedies-Pe-ru-na and Man-alin—our readers can easily procure, as they are kept in stock by all druggists. Dr. Hartman's address is Columbus, O.

WASHINGTON'S CATHOLIC COLLEGE Address to the American Bishops by

Pope Leo XIII. BALTIMORE, Md., April 24 .- The Catholic Mirror today publishes the following brief address to the American bishops by Pope Leo XIII., setting forth the grants and wishes of the Holy See in relation to the Catholic College at Washington:

yourself to the preservation of Catholic piety, to promote the interests of your dioceses and especially to supply safeguards by which provision is made for the proper training of clergymen and young laymen in sound doctrine in every branch of science, sacred and profine, gives us cause or great joy, therefore very welcome were your letters sent to us toward the close of last year, in which you state that the commenced work of the great Lyceum or University at Washington, which you were promoting, had so far progressed that all things are ready for the teaching of theology this year, and we joyously accept your university law and statutes, which you submitted to our authority and judgment. In which matter we judge your purpose most praiseworthy, that you have resolved to set up in the centennial year of the establishment of the ecclesiastical hierarchy there a monument and perpetual memorial of that auspicious event by founding the university. Therefore anxous to satisfy forthwith your just desires we intrusted your university laws brought for examination and recognition to the most eminent cardinals of the Propaganda that they might give us their judgment concerning them. Now their opinions having been laid before us gladly granting your request, we sanction by these letters the statutes and laws of your university, and we give to the same the proper rights of a full and regular university. Therefore we grant power to your university, to promote students whose knowledge shall have been tested to scademic degrees and to the degree of doctorship in theology, philosophy and canon law, and in other sciences in which it is customary to confer degrees and doctorships when, in coming years, the teaching of them shall have been established in your University.

But we wish you, dearly beloved brethren, to preside with jealous care over the direction of studies and the discipline of the students in your university, either through yourselves or through prelates chosen from you shall have judged proficient for these offices. The Sec of Baltimore is the chief among the Episcopal Sees of the United States.

To the Archbishop of Baltimore and his successors we grant the privilege of discharging the office of Supreme Moderator or Chancellor of the University. Moreover, we desire, and, first of all, in the field of philosophy and theology, the plan of studies or program of subjects to be followed in your university to be submitted to this Apostolic See in order that they may be approved, and that the teaching in every branch of knowl-edge may be so arranged that your clerics and laymen equally may have an opportunity to satisfy the noble desire of knowledge by adequate instruction. But among these courses we wish that there be established a school of pontifical and ecclesiastical law, which knowledge, especially in these times, we know to be of great importance. We exhort you all, forthermore, to affiliate to your university seminaries, colleges and other Catholic scats of learning as is suggested in the statutes, safeguarding, however, the independence of each one. In order to derive from the various departments of the great univervarious departments of the great univer-sity, the greatest benefits for the greatest number, it is well to admit particularly to those schools of theology and philosophy not only those who should have finished those studies as pointed out by the Third Plenary Council of Baltimore, but also even those who are set on beginning or prose-Bristol and Lynchburg.

The Washington University being established by those, our let-ters, we forbid the founding of any other such constitution without consulting the Apostolic See. What we have declared and appointed by those letters we judge will be a clear proof of our desire and anxiety to promote in that region more and more the glory and prosperity of the Catholic religion.

Poisoned by a Calf.

My little boy broke out with ulcers and sores, the result of the saliva from a calf's sores, the result of the saliva from a call's mouth coming in contact with a cut finger. The ulcers were deep and vory painful, and showed no inclination to heal. I used quite a number of remedies, with no benefit, but got Swift's Specific, and he improved with the first few doses, and in a short time was sound and well of the poison, and his general health much improved.

Dyspepsia and Torpid Liver. Nathaniel Hyatt, Insurance Department,

Sathaniel Hyatt, Insurance Department, Albany, N. Y., writes:

I have been a great sufferer from dystepsia, water brash, acid stomach and constipasion for the last filteen months. Some time ago I read in one of Brandreth's Calendars the case of a gentleman in Albany who was cured of a similar affliction by using Allecock's Porous Plasters. Knowing the gentleman referred to I purchased three—one I wore on the pit of the stomach and two on my right side. I wore them a week, then took a bath and removed the plasters. I washed the places with outogue, rubbed them dry and then applied fresh Allocek's Porous Plasters. I found my appetite and digestion much improved in two weeks; in three weeks my bowels became regular, and, after using the plasters for four weeks, I found myself entirely cured.
